The Legal Consultancy Unit (LCU), led by Prof. Manuela Consito with the Human Rights and Migration Law Clinic's students, will create a more permanent link with the local community.

Selected law students will take part in groups devoted to analyse the legal issues related to the family reunification of migrants, to the role played by private and public institution in promoting reception and integration of unaccompanied foreign minors, to the migrants' access to decent work and social protection.

The aim is to develop practical guidance and materials for concrete application by local and national actors, through a learning by doing approach aimed at supporting a rise of awareness of work-related rights, enefits and duties both of the migrants and the stakeholders.
